Emmett Wrigley Emmett William Wrigley (13 March 1846 - 7 April 1919) was a shopkeeper, and twice Mayor of Rockhampton, Queensland, in 1882 and 1889. Emmett Wrigley was born in Sydney, New South Wales, the second son of Robert and Sarah Wrigley. He was educated at St. Matthew's College, and for 21 years was a shopkeeper at Rockhampton. He married Anne Alice Coleman of Collingwood, Victoria on 11 December 1878, with whom he had two sons and three daughters, including Ella (1879) and Florence (1881). On 7 November 1883 he was elected a councillor of the Rockhampton Municipal Council. He served as mayor for two terms, from 1882 to 1884 and again from 1887 to 1889. He was involved in the setting up of the Rockhampton hospital, and donated over $1,000 towards its building. He died at the family home, "Bobbyo's Hill", Woodstock Road, Rockhampton, on 7 April 1919. Such protocols make use of an air interface, known as the Um interface (where u stands for user), through which the mobile phones transmit and receive voice and data information to and from a network infrastructure. The Um interface specification provides a number of standard characteristics, including a 24-kbit/s modulation scheme, a 448-Hz bandwidth, a frame length of 0.577 msec, and a channel bandwidth of 200 Hz in both the uplink and the downlink direction. These characteristics were defined by the Global System for Mobile Communications (GSM) Standard, and are widely deployed throughout the world. In a cellular system, such as the GSM system, a mobile phone typically communicates via a radio link with one or more base transceiver stations (BTS). A number of mobile phones are typically served by a base transceiver station. Each base station may be assigned one or more radio channels through which it exchanges information with mobile phones in its assigned service area bff6bb2d33 now if anyone knows how to get into the troll-wars let me know cause i saw that :D Post by molinazo_dev on May 17, 2015 12:12:30 GMT I want to know too, but it requires some skills that im not willing to part with atm lol. Excuses are always made, but in reality, entry to a game like this is done with the touch of a button, just playing basically. I don't always want to wait to find out if it's true, well, maybe some times. Post by annael on May 17, 2015 12:54:53 GMT sure i agree, same thing, thats how I play games like this, although the "only 8 human players" in Tt, and no communication system between players is kinda stupid. Excuses are always made, but in reality, entry to a game like this is done with the touch of a button, just playing basically. I don't always want to wait to find out if it's true, well, maybe some times. im actually kinda scared to try, but the idea of new maps and stuff is quite enticing who knows, maybe i will ^^ Post by molinazo_dev on May 20, 2015 12:52:37 GMT any word??? Im really exited and curious. will always lurk here, good luck with troll wars Post by anreadala on May 20, 2015 21:01:11 GMT they are too busy fighting the last war (as usual) so I doubt they will rush to get started in Troll Wars. I think the 8 players limitation is to prevent spam and chaoticness in the raid. Post by annael on May 21, 2015 12:41:06 GMT hmm, i also found a retest file from back in the day. Says to keep off launch day. But they are really popular so it's about time :D Post by molinazo_dev on May 21, 2015 14:54:45 GMT They really aren't popular, it's just id game?Q: How to show a fragment shader that opens with a page flip? Hi so I'm trying to show a fragment shader like the following. // Convert Y-position from clip space to clip-space projection coords float yy = 1.0f - (nearPlane * pow(tan(angle), 2.0f)); gl_FragCoord.y = yy * (float(0)); how would I do this? Do I just write the gl_FragCoord... section out in the fragment shader and call it directly? I don't want any lighting/colors/anything. Just the layout and depth of the page with the content, shifted by some amount. EDIT: gl_FragCoord.xy = half_width * (float(0) + float(page_id) * -half_width); gl_FragCoord.z = half_height * (float(0) + float(page_id) * -half_height); What's that? I don't get the half_width and half_height? A: Ah I think I got it. I just got it working by turning on lighting as well as texture and using some tricks in gl_FragCoord to do the page flipping. gl_FragCoord.x = -half_width + half_width * sin(angle); gl_FragCoord.y = -half_height + half_height * cos(angle); gl_FragCoord
