Q: Copying and pasting table cell in outlook I have the VBA code below, which automatically copies and pastes values from a table cell in an.xsl file in outlook. This works fine for copying values from a.xsl file which is cell A1. Sub copy() Dim objPres As HTMLFile Dim objSect As Section Set objPres = ActivePresentation.HTMLFiles.Open(_ "C:\Example.xsl", 0, 0, False) For Each objSect In objPres.sections objSect.Copy Set objSect = objPres.sections objSect.Paste Next objSect End Sub I am trying to work out how to also copy the value that is in the table cell A1 into the new.x

In the heart of the desert reigns the fierce Amazon, leader of a fierce warrior-women nation. She has been waiting patiently for the hour to happen when the evil Emperor will come to pay her a visit in search of gold and slaves. She leads her warrior-women to the river's shore to be joined by a big group of other warriors, who will go with the Amazon in a large procession into the land of the enemy. The Emperor will listen to the Amazon's complaints, and will grant her what she demands. However, he will not return the same way, but he will send her the next day with a great caravan of emaciated human slaves. She will find only death there, not gold nor slaves, but death in droves. The peasants on the shore will tell stories of a fearful creature that lived in the water, a big ghost, but nobody has seen it. The Amazon is going to find a place on the shore, where she will live in a desert tent with her warriors. They will be hunting for the tamer beasts, or the walkers, and will be preoccupied with their next raid. Years go by and the Emperor has made the plans for his next attack, and gathers his armed forces. And the time is here. The Amazon is waiting for the Emperor, but his army is already surrounded by the Amazon's well-trained warriors, who will strike a killing blow in the Emperor's face. You are about to come to the Amazon's kingdom. In your mission is to stop the Emperor by finding all his troops and his camps, by fighting all the enemies, by finding all the gold and by breaking down his refineries. Go and stop the evil Emperor... d41b202975

_HPP_INCLUDED L'Imaginaire du libertin L' Imaginaire du libertin (English title: The Libertine's Imagination) was a collection of comic stories written by French author Honoré de Balzac. The collection was first published in 1831 with illustrations by Victor Paul and was composed of twelve stories. It was reworked into a major novel in 1834. The short stories were also adapted into plays with the same title, including The Imaginary Jesuit and A Woman Who Did Not Love in the set created by Catulina, and the adaptation of Lazarus. Bibliography The story collection was first published in 1831. It was intended to form a series called the Discours de l'Art Dramatique; it was first issued in Paris in 1831, and was subsequently republished in two volumes in 1834 as L' Imaginaire du libertin Lazarus, ou la jeunesse sans prix, theatre play, published in 1832 in Paris The Imaginary Jesuit, theatre play, published in 1833 in Paris A Woman Who Did Not Love, theatre play, published in 1835 in Paris Category:Works by Honoré de Balzac Category:1831 short story collectionsYou're right. TGFβ induces epithelial-mesenchymal transition in fibroblasts: a novel mechanism of lung fibrosis. Idiopathic pulmonary fibrosis (IPF) is a progressive and lethal interstitial lung disease for which neither effective treatment nor definitive pathogenic mechanisms have been identified. IPF is assumed to result from aberrant wound healing after physical trauma, however, its pathogenesis remains unclear. The epithelial-mesenchymal transition (EMT) has been implicated in organ fibrosis and EMT is regulated by TGFβ. We hypothesize that TGFβ may induce EMT in injured lung fibroblasts (vital to wound healing) and ultimately lead to fibrosis and we investigated this mechanism in vitro. TGFβ stimulation of isolated adult lung fibroblasts leads to a unique morphology consistent with a transition from the epithelial to a myofibroblastic phenotype. This early phenotypic change was reversible, and epithelial and fibroblast markers exhibited preferential expression when cells are treated with the mitogen platelet derived growth factor. Expression of the late mesenchymal marker, fibronectin, was confirmed by immunofluorescence and demonstrated temporal dependence on TGFβ. Additionally, TGFβ caused inhibition of a commonly observed epithelial marker, E-cadherin, and transcription of Snail was demonstrated by its upregulation at the protein level and in luciferase reporter assays after TGFβ treatment. Snail activity is known to mediate EMT in a variety of tissues and loss of E-cadherin is a well-known contributor to intercellular adhesions and tissue migration. This study demonstrates that TGFβ is sufficient to induce these cellular changes in vitro which are associated with fibroblast
