I never see an answer key for their students' book..University of Wisconsin-Madison's Interfraternity Council (IFC) recently banned Greek organizations from holding pre-social activities at fraternity houses, according to Greek Life Magazine. The IFC has ordered chapters of fraternity houses to have their "official social events" take place in a different location. According to The Badger Herald, the IFC's reasoning is that fraternity houses are "a communal space for a fraternity that would be less welcoming to the surrounding community if the chapter held an official event at their residence." "The IFC decision did not go over well with fraternities and sororities," Badger Herald editor in chief Bob Klawiter writes. "Many were upset that the decision targeted an individual chapter of a Greek organization as opposed to the fraternity or sorority organization itself." Klawiter notes that the IFC cannot ban the organizations' social events from fraternity houses. Instead, the IFC has restricted the chapters of the fraternity houses to one social event per semester, and only if the event is: Open to the public Is an official IFC event or will cost the chapter money Outside the IFC social culture (a "no guac" event) The decision comes after a stretch of turbulence in recent years in the Greek life of the Madison area. Last December, it was revealed that a student was tortured and sexually assaulted in 2014 in
