This increased level of realism is reflected in the brand new Sensational Strikers system, which lets players take on 11 different positions across the squad. The Sensational Strikers system allows up to 4 players at each position to interchange freely, while making off-the-ball contributions or contributing to attacks by finding spaces in the opposition's defensive line. All Sensational Strikers receive specific pitch awareness rewards based on their position. "Sensational Strikers is an example of something that's been driven at an incredibly high level to make sure that players are doing the things that they need to do to be successful at their position," EA Sports senior producer Sean Bratches told Yahoo Esports. "That includes things like tackling, and at the same time also having the ability to step off the ball and be really influential in the attack. "They're all very much inspired by the things that they need to be successful as strikers." FIFA's primary focus is on action gaming, so the Sensational Strikers system offers a thorough and accurate portrayal of a striker's responsibilities on the pitch, but at the same time, it gives off-the-ball contributors a chance to play a vital role in the game. "I think it's easy to see it as a form of substitution, but I think it's just as important," Bratches said. "Your striker is going to get their share of shots and chances, but it's as important for someone to get in the box and help create opportunities or threaten the opposition as it is for a defender to make tackles."
